HUNTED: Sixteenth in a Series of Jess Williams Westerns (A Jess Williams Western Book 16) Robert J. Thomas

In Hunted, Jess Williams is again hunting down killers who have a bounty on their heads. Then, some strange things start happening. Someone starts killing off some of the men Jess is after and leaving a shiny fifty caliber rifle cartridge as his calling card.

Jess tries to backtrack his own trail and find out who the mysterious man is who is killing his targets and why, but he can't find who is doing it. Finally, Jess' old friend and United State Marshal Frank Reedy wires Jess asking for a face-to-face meeting.

Reedy tells Jess about Martin Creed, also nicknamed The Ghost. The Ghost is an evil and cagy murderer who enjoys watching his victims die slowly. But that's not really why Frank Reedy wanted to talk to Jess. He informs Jess that Martin Creed has selected his next prey to hunt down and kill, and that prey is Jess Williams himself, and so far, the Ghost has never failed to kill anyone he was hunting.

A cat and mouse game ensues between The Ghost and Jess, and Jess wonders if he has finally met his match and what is really on the other side of that door they call death.
